

Ask the Experts - HorseChannel.com

Featured Question:

Q. My horse was diagnosed with heaves. What can I do to help her?

A. A vet offers advice for managing heaves, also known as Recurrent Airway Obstruction.

Click Here >>

Send your training, health and horsekeeping questions -- maybe yours will be featured at HorseChannel.com.

Submit your Ask the Expert question here.

Click a category on the right to read questions and answers from other trainers and veterinarians.

If you have a sick horse, seek veterinary assistance immediately. Do not wait to see if your question is answered, especially if your horse is showing signs of illness. In many cases, time is of the essence. If you are having serious training problems with your horse, please seek the services of a qualified trainer. Consult a veterinarian, farrier or other equine professional to eliminate problems caused by injury, poor health or improperly fitting equipment.

Our expert service provides information to assist horse owners in caring responsibly for their horses and to assist the visitors of our website on equine training and behavior issues. All information provided is strictly informational in nature and should never be used as a substitute for proper care, training and medical attention for your horse. Horse Channel and BowTie, Inc., along with any of their respective subsidiaries or employees, expressly disclaim all liability associated with the failure of anyone using this source of information to care for their pet.