

A Call for Entries for Equine Ideal: Winter 2009 Online Photography Contest

Professionals and amateurs can submit their best digital work for judges' and people's choice awards in seven categories.

February 16, 2009

All professional and amateur photographers who seek to capture the ideal image of the horse are invited to enter the Online Photography Contest sponsored by the Equine Photographers' Network.

The deadline for entries is March 20th. Winners will be announced on May 11th. Winners will be recognized on the contest's website, <http://www.equinephotocontest.com>. Images are to be submitted in a digital format as per guidelines found on the contest's website.

Images will be judged by professional equine photographers based on: impact, equipment expertise, technical/artistic expertise, light and color, subject matter, creativity and suitability.

As the contest sponsor, the Equine Photographers' Network will be awarding ribbons to first to sixth places and prizes to the top three placing photos in each of the seven categories and a Best of Show award in both the Professional and Amateur divisions. This contest will also feature two People's Choice Awards, a very popular feature from previous contests where the public is invited to cast their vote for their favorite photo from the professional and amateur divisions. View results from previous contests here: <http://www.equinephotocontest.com/winners.asp>

The official rules and entry form are available online at <http://www.equinephotocontest.com>

Sign up for online equine photography school >>

Get some tips for better horse photography from Bob Langrish >>

Listen to an interview with equine photographer Anrd Bronkhorst >>