

HorseChannel Newswire

World Equestrian Games officials learn from Vancouver Olympics experience; New movie stars a Paso Fino stallion; BLM seeking comments on planned Wyoming wild horse roundup

February 23, 2010

2010 World Equestrian Games

World Equestrian Games officials learning lessons from Olympics

World Games CEO Jamie Link knows they have an opportunity come September, so he's been getting in shape. From WKYT. Read more >>

Equestrian Sport

Video: New FEI group to tackle Rollkur named

The FEI has finalised its working group which will aid stewards in bringing in the new policy on warm-up techniques following last week's round-table conference on hyperflexion/Rollkur. From Horsetalk. Read more >>

In Other News

Locally filmed 'A Fine Step' is a family film with equestrian appeal

The producers of "A Fine Step," a film now shooting in Shelby County, weren't expecting snow and ice for their first weekend in Memphis. From The Commercial Appeal. Read more >>

Man traveling through area on way to Alaska in horse-pulled covered wagon

Three horses pulled a covered wagon down Old Highway 99 on Friday afternoon, providing horsepower for a vehicle that likely hasn't been seen on a Thurston County road in a long, long time. From The News Tribune. Read more >>

BLM in Wyo. seeks comments on wild horse roundup

The Bureau of Land Management is asking for public comments on a plan to roundup wild horses from areas in south-central Wyoming where populations exceed the agency's management levels. From Local News 8. Read more >>

Feral herd of sickly horses on the loose in Hialeah

The five feral horses that wandered into a busy Hialeah intersection Saturday night were probably just hungry. From The Miami Herald. Read more >>

Yesterday's News >>