

HorseChannel Newswire

World Equestrian Games provide educational experiences for Kentucky kids; Record entries for Cutting Horse championship; Stranded horse rescued by helicopter

March 17, 2010

2010 Alltech FEI World Equestrian Games

Scholar Program Puts Alltech FEI World Equestrian Games Tickets in the Hands of Creative Kids

Alltech is handing the reins over to creative elementary students in Fayette, Jessamine, Scott, and Woodford County schools. From ThomasNet News. Read more >>

Equestrian Sport

Cutting Horse Show brings record number of competitors

Riding through the Kirk Fordice Equine Center Monday morning, Gail Sanders picks one cow from the herd, then lets her cutting horse take control. From WLBT. Read more >>

In Other News

BLM sets sale of wild horses in northern Wyoming

Horse lovers will have the opportunity to adopt a wild horse from the McCullough Peaks Herd Management Area in northern Wyoming. From Local News 8. Read more >>

Owner of stranded horse talks about emotional rescue

A horse that had been stranded on a small river island in the West Valley since Friday was rescued by helicopter on Tuesday morning. From ABC 15. Read more >>

International Blockbuster Exhibition of Arabian Art Opens in May

The largest and most comprehensive collection of exotic Near Eastern and Arabian equine art and artifacts ever assembled will soon be on view when "A Gift from the Desert: The Art, History and Culture of the Arabian Horse" is presented May 29-October 15 in the Kentucky Horse Park's International Museum of the Horse—a Smithsonian Affiliate. From USEF. Read more >>

Horse displays his true colors

He's mischievous and clever, an artist with an attitude. From The Journal-Sentinel. Read more >>

Yesterday's News >>