

The HorseChannel Newswire

Stay up-to-date with the latest horse news from all around the country (01-01-08).

01-01-08

Horse Rescuers Taking In Record Numbers Amid Drought, Hay Prices

Horse rescue agencies are taking in a record number of horses in recent months after the dramatic price increase for hay, from WSOCTV. >" href="http://www.wsocvt.com/news/14951267/detail.html?rss=char&psp=news" target=_blank href_cetemp="http://www.wsocvt.com/news/14951267/detail.html?rss=char&psp=news">Read more >>

Local horse farmer finds solution to growing hay costs

The drought continues to worsen here in North Carolina, from WWAYTV3. >" href="http://www.wwaytv3.com/local_horse_farmer_finds_a_solution_to_growing_hay_costs/12/2007" target=_blank href_cetemp="http://www.wwaytv3.com/local_horse_farmer_finds_a_solution_to_growing_hay_costs/12/2007">Read more >>

Hay prices affect riding horse sales

When it comes to the status of the local horse trade business, the phrase "all work and no play" has taken on a whole new meaning, from Goshen News. Read more >>

Horse population increases across Virginia

A new study shows the number of horses, ponies and mules in Virginia grew 26 percent between 2001 and 2006, from WVEC. Read more >>

Animals Seized From Horse Rescue

Authorities seized 27 animals from the Animal Angels Horse Rescue ranch in Fort Collins, Colo., Saturday, from the Denver Channel. Read more >>

Authorities: Emaciated horses confiscated from Deland horse farm

Authorities say more than two dozen emaciated and feces-covered purebred Arabian horses have been confiscated from a Deland, Fla., horse farm, from WSVN. Read more >>

Cloned mare due to give birth to spring foal

The world's first cloned horse is to give birth to her own foal in April, from Horse and Hound. Read more >>

Famed trainer of race horses takes final ride in 104-year-old horse-drawn hearse

Tradition played its part as the community said goodbye Saturday to a native who set the standard in his field, from JG-TC. Read more >>

Prince Charles gets on high horse over 'prat' photographer

The Prince of Wales rounded on a photographer, calling him "an annoying little prat" while out riding at his Norfolk estate, from the Times Online. Read more >>

Big changes afoot at winter horse festival

Even the topsoil will be different, from the Palm Beach Post. Read more >>